If the Agreement Is Unsatisfactory From Japaese Standpoint Amicable Representations May Be Made After It Is Concluded L1 Hung Chang Commits Himself to Favor of Rus la - Resents Outside Interference.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN. ONDON, April 3.-The Tokio correspondent of the Times says that the Russian answer to | apan regarding Manchuria is approximately us follows: First-Russia is unwilling to disuss with a third Power the terms of the igreement pending the negotiations, but agreement will be published when it is oncluded. Second-The agreement is temporary, and is destined to facilitate the withdrawal of the Russian forces from Manchuria. It is not intended to Impair China's sovereignty or to injure or impair the rights and interests of other States. Third-Russia is confident that the agreement when it is published, will command general approval, but if anything is found unsatisfactory from the Japanese standpoint, amicable repreentations will be possible.

his view is confirmed by Li Hung Chang n an interview with the Times corresponden at Pekin. Earl i admitted that his policy was based on the conviction that Russia is the only Power China need fear. China had not sought the agreement Russia offered, and China could not refuse to accept it because er officials had placed her in the wrong by ttacking the Russian forces.

As the negotiations proceeded Russia's tone became more imperious and she peremptorily negatived a suggestion that the had a brief interview in Signor Zanardelli's natter be treated by the concert of the Powers Li Hung Chang added that he was convinced that although the agreement had not been signed China must and ultimately ould sign it. Russia now formally threatens to straightway annex Manchuria, and when eminded of the pledges given to the Powers hat she would not seek territorial advantages she avows that she is determined to cancel the pledges, which were only given con-

Japan, England and the United States are the only Powers who have ever professed interest in the Manchurian question, but it is not known to what extent their interest would go If they would give China a written asurance that they would demand the restoration of Manchuria within a given term of years, hen China would not sign the agreement. Otherwise, what good would it do for China to irritate Russia and lose Manchuria altogether on the very doubtful chance of support from other quarters? The correspondent asked what security there was that the convention would permasatisfy Russia's appetite. Li Hung Chang admitted that China could have no security, but said she could probably reckon on a ten or twenty years' respite while Russia was busy Russifying Manchuria. Meanwhile China could strengthen herself for the future. Moreover, China was bound to consult the interests of the Manchurian people, and the resumption of the civil administration under the convention would to some extent reduce the hardships they now endured under Russian military rule When the correspondent remarked that

She had no commerce and no missionaries, but she desired territorial aggrandizement and military expansion, and she had the advantages of prrespondent adds:

Even more than his actual language, Li Hung Chang's whole manner, his ejaculaatient shrugging of his shoulders and the way he shook his head, satisfied me that the questions has become a per sonal one with him. He is now so fully committed to the policy of buying off Russia at any price that he is almost inclined to resent the possibility of the intervention of the other Powers or anything calculated to weaken his belief in Russia's omnipotence.'

REASON OF CHINA'S ATTITUDE.

Assurance of Support by Japan in Resisting Russia's Demands.

Special Cable Despatch to THE SUN From THE SUN Correspondent at Pekin

PERIN, March 28, (delayed) - The Chinese to-day are anxiously watching the developments of the trouble with Russia over the Manchurian treaty. They are wondering whether Russia will compel China by force to sign the treaty, or whether they had better quietly yield. The strong attitude of Japan in promising support to China in her opposition to Russia and the equally strong attitude of the Japanese in warning Russia to keep her hands off relieve the situation of amount of danger. It seems doubtful now that Russia will dare to use force against ·China when she knows that means that she ill have to resist Japan-a country which has the moral support certainly of England and America.

Li Hung Chang appears to be much pleased over the statement made to him by the Jap-anese Minister on this point, giving to him as it did, the first and only assurance of outside support to China in rejecting the demands of Russia. The officials in other parts of China, especially the chief advisers of the Court. are still more emphatic in the belief that ina hould refuse to sign the Manchurian treaty even as it has been modified by Russia. They elieve that the modification really does not modify the main question at issue, namely, Russian predominance over the Chinese along all the border stretch of territory of the Chinese Empire.

Yesterday Sir Robert Hart, the Imperial Commissioner of Maritime Customs, had conference with the committee appointed by the Ministers on the indemnity question and explained his plan by which China could raise the money to pay the various claims. His scheme is that each Power shall accept Chinese bonds for the amount due to it and that these bonds shall be redeemed within a certain limit of time, say fifty years. The security for the redemption of these bonds shall be the revenues of the Chinese Empire the likin, the tax on opium and the regular tax on house owners. These views were approved by a majority of the Committee of Ministers. Germany, however, still pre fers that China shall raise a loan to pay off the various indemnities. A loan of this kind under the present circumstances would naturally sell below par, say at about so Thi would increase China's indebtedness and make it harder for her to pay the indemnities it seems doubtful now that the concert of the Powers will be maintained on this indemnity

Young Farmer Commits a Double Murder His Home -Tried to Shoot His Father.

SUNBURY, Pa., April 2 -John Gulick, a young farmer living near Kline's Grove, four miles east of here, to-day shot and instantly killed his mother, aged 70 years, and then murdered his brother Phillip, aged 27 years. The double murder was done shortly after 6 o'clock this morning. Samuel Gulick, the boy's father, asked him to go to Sunbury to lay the foundation of a house. He made no reply and the father went out to the barn. When he returned the mother and son were quarrelling and the boy coolly took deliberate aim and shot at his mother before the father could intercept him. The bullet death instantly. The father and son then engaged in a severe struggle, during which the son made several attempts to shoot his father, but was unsuccessful. The father managed to release himself and escaped by the back door. The son then quietly walked to the barn yard, where his brother Phillip was and shot him through the heart.

The murderer escaped in the woods nearby. It is believed that he cut through the woods and took a freight train on the Wilkes-Barre and North Branch Railroad north. This road runs within sight of the Gulick

ROME, April 2.-It is generally assumed that the brief meeting of Prime Minister Zanardelli and Chancellor von Bülow at Verona was connected with politics, but what could be achieved in a fifteen infinites' chat it is difficult to imagine. The meeting, however, furnishes an opportunity for the writers of political screeds, and the pending Italo-German commercial treaty and the renewal of the Triple Alliance afford matter for endless speculation. The forthoming visit of an Italian squadron to Toulor is treated by those who desire a Franco-Italian alliance an an event of the utmost international importance. The Duke of Genoa, who will command the squadron. went to Spezzia to-day to inspect the ships The squadron will sail on Sunday, Meanwhile there is nothing at present to indicate that the meeting at Verona was anything further than a courtesy.

"Did you spend any money in the Cleveland election, Senator?" was asked.

"Why, I made my regular campaign contribution to the Republican fund," replied Senator Hanna. "I always do that, and I never make any secret about it. But there is absolutely nothing unusual about it this year and nothing to justify any such report as this. Has Johnson been saying around here that I spent $100.000 to defeat his brother?"

"Yes," was the reply, "and it's going to be printed, too."

"Well," said Senator Hanna, "I see Johnson about the hotel corridor every little while. The next time I see him I shall tell him that he's a damned liar."

DADY HAS HIS WAY.

Beats Atterbury in the Executive Committee

A full meeting of the Republican Executive for Congress districts, as submitted by the former at Albany last week, was the feature of the meeting. Mr. Atterbury denounced the scheme as a gerrymander and as inevitably tending to injure the Republican party in Kings county. He also charged bad faith in the matter, inasmuch as all the parties to the controversy had agreed over a month ago to abide by the decision of Lieut. Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff, whose plan of apportunement differed materially from that of Col. Dady and was less objectionable to Mr. Atterbury's Twenty-third wird constituents than that of the latter. Mr. Atterbury declared that the 6,000 organized Republicans of the Twenty-third ward were strenuously opposed to the splitting up of the ward as proposed and were determined to appeal to Gov. Odell if such a step should be found necessary.

Fourth District Wards 26, 28, 31 and 32 and election districts 9 to 13 and 19 to 22 of the Twenty-fifth ward.

Fifth District—Wards 8, 24, 29 and 30 and election districts 22 to 32 of the Twenty-third ward and 1 to 8 and 14 to 18 of the Twenty-third ward and 1 to 8 and 14 to 18 of the Twenty-fifth ward.

Sixth District—Wards 7, 9, 29 and 22 and election districts 5 to 10 of the Third ward and 1 to 4 and 9 to 13 of the Eleventh ward.

Seventh District—Wards 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 10 and 12 and election districts 1 to 4 of the Third ward and 1 to 4 and 9 to 13 of the Eleventh ward.

The Democrates are bound to raise a loud howl over such an apportionment, inasmuch as it gives them only two sure districts, the Second and the Seventh, although the normal Democratic majority in the county, as they assert, ranges from 12,000 to 15,000.

It is alleged that Milstead's friends in this county endeavored to make a conditional agreement with the Messrs. Dickson that if they should carry the county for Milstead they were to receive the sum of $2,000, but this the Messrs. Dickson declined and got the check for $2,000 in advance and collected it. It was further alleged by the friends of Messrs. Dickson that they endeavored in good faith to carry out their promise to Milstead, and that they did carry their own town, Lowndesboro, by over 300 majority for Milstead.
